Three openings for one invented story

What does each beginning invite a reader to wonder about?

Shared facts

Which facts must every version preserve?

First information

What does each opening reveal first?

My alternative

Write, draw or dictate a new entry point.

A connected next line

Which introduced detail does the next line develop?

Keep it, change it or leave it here. Sharing is optional.